

Updated ingredients to be a text field since some of the ingredients can become very long.

Added a `calc_difficulty` function created along with the ingredients list function that splits up the textfield ingredients to count the number of ingredients and calculate the difficulty of the recipe.

Added a description so users can explain the steps to their recipe and added a pic so people can show pictures of the final product.

Added a `get_absolute_url` so the list of recipes can become clickable.